	CALL for Energy-Efficient Commercial Building Projects -- Commercial building owners and operators can submit planned new or retrofit commercial building projects that will achieve significant energy savings by responding to the Call for Projects. Successful respondents will work with researchers at the national laboratories and with private-sector technical experts under contract to the national laboratories to achieve energy goals. Participants will receive no direct funding, but will have access to the technical expertise of both national laboratory personnel and private sector consultants. Learn more about Commercial Building Partnership and this new opportunity. http://www1.eere.energy.gov/buildings/commercial_initiative/building_partnerships.html . Note that this is a competitive process and not all projects will be selected.	An online application is expected to be available at http://www.nrel.gov/cbp on APRIL 19, 2010.
